Causewayhead Cemetery

The Council appeals
to everyone to observe
health and safety
warnings concerning
the access bridge
to Causewayhead
Cemetery.

Allerdale Borough Council has been forced to close to all vehicles
the access bridge
cemetery at Silloth.

The Council closed
the bridge following an engineer's report which stated that the bridge
was unsafe for any
weight over one tonne.
The bridge remains
open to pedestrians.

The Council is currently considering
its options regarding the bridge and alternative methods for access.

Investigation into
whether the bridge
can be repaired has highlighted that works
would only increase
the weight tolerance to two tonnes. Many of the vehicles that would be crossing the bridge,
such as those belonging to monumental masons,
weigh more than this.
Repair work would not,

therefore, resolve the
issue.

In the immediate future, the bridge
will remain open
to pedestrians. The Council recognises there are issues regarding the traffic on the road that joins the bridge and apologises for any inconvenience. They are talking to the County Highways authority and the Police about issues regarding the speed limit and how best to manage the traffic on this road. We would ask motorists to take care when passing the cemetery as people
will be parking there
regularly at all times of the day.

It has been brought to our attention that some vehicles have been parking on the bridge and are putting their safety at risk. We would appeal to motorists not to ignore the tape which restricts access for vehicles to the bridge.

Further measures
to prevent vehicles
accessing the bridge are being planned.
